

Garland Cinquain

Sparkling Darkling

The thing always happens what you really believe in and the belief in a thing makes it happen.
Frank Lloyd Wright

Would have
could have, should have all remain elusive
something is left to dream about or wish.

Life is omission or commission beyond your control.
You can witness and break your heart alone.

Beloved
family, friends
get hurt. Pain and chaos of constant change, most beyond your control.

Seeing
light pierce darkness
penetrating darkled minds is cause for celebrating, hope, love and joy.

Would have
could have, should have happened-- filled with sparkling light casting a darkling spirit toward light.

Garland Cinquain

1. Five 5-line stanzas.
2. Syllable Count: 2-4-6-8-2
3. Unrhymed