

Haiku

sunset beam spotlights ripe holly berries blowing in burgeoning breeze

sun lightens conifer shadowed branches beneath lift lighter in breeze

football players fall like leaves, tumble on hardened ground crumble on fake field.

Haiku

Contemporary haiku do not have to follow the three line 5-7-5 syllable count.
Many have no punctuation or capitalization.
Some are even written in two lines.
An American Sentence is one line of 17 syllables.
