

Pleiades

Halloween

Hope the cackling witches and warlocks
Hop on their broomsticks and fly away.
Horrible ghosts and ghouls vanish in air.
Hobbling wizards use staffs for support not magic.
Howling owls and screeching bats silence in moonlight.
Hollowed pumpkins light the way so
Happy trick or treaters can be safe.

Thanksgiving

Take the turkey to the stump.
Try not to burn the meal.
Tackle thorny relationships.
Tune in to your higher selves.
Tolerate the setbacks.
Triumph over obstacles.
Tease positivity, flirt with joy.
Together give thanks for grace.

:Pleiades:

Created by Craig Tigerman

1. The title is one word
2. Each line begins with the first letter of the title.
3. Usually the poem has seven lines for the number of stars in Pleiades.